Bronia Jenkins to Lead the ACBL

The ACBL has named Bronia Jenkins of Vero Beach FL as its newest Executive Director.

The Board of Directors “enthusiastically and unanimously voted that Bronia is the right person to lead the ACBL into the future,” said ACBL President Joann Glasson.

Jenkins started playing bridge as a teenager while an engineering intern at The Timken Company in North Canton OH and later represented Canada as a Junior player. She has three NABC+ titles and captained the USA2 Women’s team at the 2017 World Championships.

Jenkins previously worked in the finance industry as a financial services executive prior to taking a sabbatical to raise her two children. She became involved with their school and eventually taught there.

“There is no other game I love like the game of bridge,” Jenkins said. “Bridge has been a thread throughout my entire life. I want more people to benefit from playing this game; it creates bonds, friendships and wellness for people in the community.”
